EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

RPPC spent considerable time in 2022-2023 clarifying the role of the RPPC and the way it operates under and reports to the Faculty Senate Steering Committee. We met with President and Vice-President of FS to discuss different ways of improving the role and function of the RPPC in FS. Additionally, RPPC members met with Mr. Nappi, Interim Vice President for Research Associate Vice President for Technology Commercialization and Business Development, to discuss collaboration between RPPC and OVRP office.

1. INCREASING OUR REACH ACROSS THE UNIVERSITY

The RPPC has been redefining its mission over the past few years. Its major responsibility, which consisted of managing faculty research initiation awards, was terminated. In AC2022-23, we were in the middle of implementing a process that the RPPC will follow to function. In an agreement with Faculty Senate, RPPC provided monthly meeting minutes to the FSSC and vetted all communications outside the committee through the FSSC. RPPC members met with Mr. Nappi, Interim Vice President for Research Associate Vice President for Technology Commercialization and Business Development, to discuss collaboration between RPPC and OVRP office. RPPC participated in review process of choosing Pew Grant applicant for limited submission on behalf of Temple University.

COMMITTEE ACTIONS

At the end of Spring 2022 semester, The Faculty Senate's Research Programs and Policy Committee has been asked to distribute up to $7500 in research grants. The grants are intended to support scholarly activities that will significantly advance understanding of effective research programs and policies. 5 applications were evenly funded with amount of $1500.

At the end of November 2022, RPPC received reports from the following recipients:

1. Elise Chor (College of Liberal Arts/ elise.chor@temple.edu) project "Does Money Matter? Preschool funding, program quality, and child development"
2. Jocelyn Behm (College of Science and Technology/ jocelyn.behm@temple.edu) project "Roles of foxes, cats, and coyotes in the control of Lyme Disease"
3. Konstantin Bauman (Fox Business School/ kbauman@temple.edu) project "Empowering Recommender Systems: Helping Users Explore their Own Preferences"
4. Mohammed A. Kashem (LKSOM/ kashem@temple.edu) project "Sequential Assessment of Endothelial Function in Lung Transplantation"
5. Julia M. Kobulsky (College of Public Health/ julia.kobulsky@temple.edu) project "Informing Child Sexual Abuse Recurrence Prevention with System Data Integration."

THE REPORTS WERE SUBMITTED TO FACULTY SENATE (cmack@temple.edu, senate2@temple.edu)

2. FUTURE PLANS

The RPPC is still waiting on creation of web space so that we can begin building a means of communicating with faculty. This requirement is part of an outcome from the faculty survey that we need to increase awareness of several research-related resources.

RPPC proposes restructuring of the RPPC in the future.

The stated prime directive of the RPPC is "promoting faculty research and scholarly activities and advising university administration and the Faculty Senate on research policies." The term "research," in this case, is usefully ambiguous: various disciplines across the university's thirteen schools and colleges engage in a remarkably wide array of research types. Each academic discipline defines research differently, with corresponding differences in approach, assessment, and support needs. It is imperative, then, that the RPPC reflects and represents those diverse interests, values, and needs.

Toward that end, the current RPPC proposes restructuring the committee to be comprised of one representative from each of the university's eighteen schools and colleges.

Ideally (though not necessarily), representatives would be chosen by their respective collegial assemblies. For situations where that is not feasible, representatives would be appointed by their deans.

The current system of three-year terms would continue in this new model but would be staggered in three groups to ensure continuity and institutional knowledge.

The committee recommends that these changes be made effective beginning Spring 2024, allowing time in Fall 2023 to work with schools on implementation, including discussion of the RPPC's potential roles for each school's unique needs, and appointment of representatives.

3. ELECTED CHAIR AND SECRETARY FOR NEXT ACADEMIC 2023-2024 YEAR ARE:

Chair: Munir Mandviwalla, Fox School of Business, 1-5617, munir.mandviwalla@temple.edu

Secretary: Ilene Hollin, CPH, 1-9164, ilene.hollin@temple.edu
