

I am interested in contributing to Faculty Senate committee work that supports intellectually ambitious, inclusive, and interdisciplinary educational experiences across the university. As a department chair, former associate dean, and faculty member in the arts, I have substantial experience with curriculum development, academic policy, program administration, assessment, and collaborative work across departments and disciplines. I am especially interested in the International Programs and University Honors Oversight Committees because of their roles in broadening students' educational opportunities and connecting learning across institutional, disciplinary, and cultural boundaries. I would also welcome the opportunity to contribute to the Educational Programs and Policies, Lectures and Forums, or Assessment of Instruction Committees, where my experience with curricular planning, public programming, teaching, and faculty governance would be directly relevant.
