

Having taught undergraduates at Temple since I joined in 2015, I would value the opportunity to contribute to the policies and programs that shape their educational journeys. I'm especially committed to initiatives related to undergraduate research and currently lead the Fox Undergraduate Research Leadership Program. I would also appreciate the opportunity to learn from initiatives colleagues are pursuing in other schools. I am generally available for meetings during the academic year, with teaching commitments planned for Tuesdays and Thursdays in the fall.